

Northwest El Paso, Texas

(General Investigation)

The study area is in western Texas, comprising portions of the City and County of El Paso north of the "El Paso Northwest Area" which has been constructed. The feasibility study will evaluate current conditions and make recommendations to reduce flood damages.

Growth and development generally northward along the Franklin Mountains is increasing the potential for flooding. One study objective is to develop a Floodplain Management plan to minimize flood hazards to existing structures and to future development. The feasibility report is scheduled to be completed in September 2005.

The City of El Paso, TX is the local sponsor for this study.
